NOTED NEW YORK GANGSTER IS SLAIN

VINCENT COLL SHOT DOWN EARLY MONDAY IN PHONE BOOTH

TYPICAL GANGSTER END
COMES TO NEW YORK'S
MOST FEARED GANGSTER

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(P)—Young Vincent Coll, who was poison with a pistol and most feared of the Gotham "guns," got his load of lead in a telephone booth at 12:45 a. m. today.

A machine gunner chopped him down coolly and deliberately in a West 23rd street drug store.

A single slug tore away the nose of the 24-year-old hoodlum so often had turned up at his deadly rival, "Dutch" Schultz, and the Schultz beer-peddling domination in the Bronx.

Numerous more carefully planned murders have been in New York in years.

The killer entered the little drug store as Coll (recently acquitted of the "baby murder" charge growing out of the Michael Angelo Slaying last summer) stood in a phone booth at the rear. Several customers were in the place.

Seated at a table near the phone booth was Coll's bodyguard. The killer, a sub-machine gun slung carelessly under his right arm, moved slowly toward the rear of the store.

He said: "Everybody keep cool. Keep this ain't no stickup. You get out."

He shuffled steadily toward the rear, not taking his eye from the booth in which Coll was engrossed in his phone call.

Coll's bodyguard arose quietly from his table, circled noiselessly out of range and slipped through the door to the street. The killer stood at the door of a sedan at the rear of the store, the man lifted the barrel of the machine gun, rested it carefully on his left arm and pulled the trigger.

Slayer Escapes.
Coll's bodyguard, almost doubling up and wedged in the booth near the floor.

The slayer backed out of the store. A companion, armed with a machine gun, was waiting him at the door of a sedan at the rear of the store, the man lifted the barrel of the machine gun, rested it carefully on his left arm and pulled the trigger.

Coll quit the "beer racket" a man ago, police said. Since then they learned he has been living by the fruits of strong arming and "chiseling"—forcing gamblers, dive keepers and other criminals to contribute cash to the Coll bankroll under threat of being slain.

SOME DIFFICULT PROBLEMS FACING
CONGRESS SOON

THIRD MONTH OF PRESENT
SESSION OPENED MONDAY; RELIEF AND TAXES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(P)—Congress begins the third month of its session today with difficult and critical decisions just ahead.

The highly-controversial issue of direct federal financial aid to the unemployed is approaching a climax in the senate, with show-down tomorrow or soon after on the $375,000,000 appropriation bill sponsored by the La Follette-Costigan combination.

The big campaign for budget balancing, underway in the house, is meeting a stiffening resistance. Not only the tax-increasing program is bringing squawks but the "kill it hurts" policy on appropriations has unleashed a flood of protests.

Hands for new outlays are piling high. There is much doubt over the outcome of the relief question. Administration opposition to anything favoring the dole and democratic objections appeared in the bill unlikely but the dislike of many members for aligning themselves against a measure so humanitarian in appeal, is adding energy to the moves for obtaining a compromise not so contrary to the principles expressed by President Hoover and many leaders.

Tomorrow is to see actual work begin on drafting the new revenue bill, a measure which Speaker Garner and other leaders as well as the treasury heads, hope will

Jap War Chief

Despite the appeals of the great western powers for peace, Mars, the god of war, still rides high in the saddle in the Far East. Here is Admiral Osumi, Japanese minister of the navy, who, after a conference with Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa and General Araki, minister of the army, decided to send a full army division of fresh troops to Shanghai. A Japanese division comprises about 11,000 men. They will replace marines who have been in the war zone since the crisis.

FATE OF ALLEGED TRUNK MURDERESS BE KNOWN SOON

RUTH JUDD CASE EXPECTED REACH JURY SOME TIME LATE MONDAY

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 8.—(P)—Winnie Ruth Judd sat with her aged parents in court today as a prosecutor asked a jury to sentence her to death for the Phoenix "trunk slaying."

Assistant County Attorney G. A. Rogers, closing final arguments for the state, called Mrs. Judd an "incurable murderer" and declared she is sane.

It was the first time the defendant's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, had taken seats in the courtroom, since her trial for the murder of Agnes Aron LeRoy started Jan. 19, although daily they have been present to embrace and encourage their daughter as she passed through the corridor to and from court.

"Insanity is the last word in the book when there is no other defense—it is the last thing espoused when there is nothing else to ward punishment off," Rogers declared.

"If not criticizing counsel in this case it was the only thing they could do—there was nothing else for them to turn to."

"But because the necessity of its use was so urgent as to leave no avenue of escape, it doesn't mean that you gentlemen must swallow it."

"She showed," the assistant prosecutor declared, describing her coolness in the Los Angeles railway station when she attempted to claim trunks containing the bodies of the "dark horse" Phoenix, "a whole lot more intelligence and sanity than I would have shown under similar circumstances."

Herman Lewkowitz, defense counsel challenged the jury to find in the record evidence that "this defendant and not an unknown or mythical person, or some person who was named but is not

AL SMITH WAITS FOR PARTY ACTION TO ENTER BATTLE

MAKES HIMSELF AVAILABLE IN MONDAY STATEMENT;
COMMENT DIVIDED

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(P)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith declared today that he is not a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination and added that nobody had ever been nominated without a pre-convention campaign.

Smith revealed in an interview this afternoon that he had called on Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt after the funeral of John R. Voorhis, 102-year-old Great Grand Sachem of Tammany Hall, today.

It came out when somebody asked Smith what he and Roosevelt were talking about in their whispered conversation at the funeral.

"The Governor asked me to come up to his house," said Smith.

"Did you go?" he was asked.

"Yes, I did," said Smith.

When he was asked what happened former Governor Smith grinned and said:

"Then he added: 'We didn't have time to talk politics. He was leaving early and I was in a hurry myself.'"

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(P)—Alfred E. Smith looked significantly today at the sword of presidential candidacy, sheathed at the 1928 polls, and announced himself willing to go again to the political wars.

"If the democratic national convention... should decide that it wants me to lead, I will make the fight," he said in a terse statement, pushing his chair back.

The statement itself was wide-spread.

MISSOURI PACIFIC AND TEXAS PACIFIC OPPOSED TO MERGER

ASK I. C. COMMISSION TO RECONSIDER COTTON BELT
S. P. DECISION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(P)—The Missouri-Pacific railroad company and the Texas and Pacific commerce commission to reconsider its decision authorizing the Southern Pacific company to acquire control of the St. Louis Southwestern railway.

The disturbed international atmosphere, meanwhile, was further troubled by the events in the little buffer state of Memel, bordering on Lithuania, where the German president, Herr Otto Soetlicher, was seized by Lithuanian authorities, who planned to put another chief in his place.

The conference must work entirely within the terms of the league covenant, he said, and the nations must be ready to join France in giving mutual pledges of assistance against aggressors before a real reduction of armaments can be realized.

This week will lay the real foundation for the work of the conference. All the major powers will submit their programs before next week-end.

British and French Delegates Clash On World Peace Plans

GENEVA, Feb. 8.—(P)—International observers investigating events at Shanghai have reported that Japanese business has suffered heavily from the boycott imposed last July.

A report embodying the first conclusions of this commission, meeting under the auspices of the League of Nations, was published tonight by the League secretariat.

It asserted the boycott was fostered by anti-Japanese associations and that Chinese who evaded it were fined and imprisoned and were unable to obtain redress through the regular court channels.

GENEVA, Feb. 8.—(P)—Great Britain and France clashed pointedly at the world disarmament conference today over two distinct, separate theories about abolishing war.

Sir John Simon presented Great Britain's plan for disarmament, including abolition of submarines and gas and chemical warfare, at the same time sharply criticizing the proposal of France or arming the League of Nations.

"That the peace of the world is to be secured by preparing for war," he said, "is no longer believed by anybody, for recent history has proved it to be a fallacy."

John also insisted that the scope of the proposals discussed be kept within the field of the disarmament convention, drawn up beforehand. He declared the British proposals remained within this field.

Andre Tardieu, French minister of war and head of the French delegation, who proposed the French armament plan last week, declared that the league is armed there can be no peace in the world. He spoke immediately following Sir John. He denied a suggestion that the French plan was "merely a maneuver."

The conference must work entirely within the terms of the league covenant, he said, and the nations must be ready to join France in giving mutual pledges of assistance against aggressors before a real reduction of armaments can be realized.

TRIAL OF FORMER DALLAS SHERIFF ON CHARGE OF BURGLARY

SCHUYLER MARSHALL, JR.,
FACES TRIAL IN WAX-
HACHIE THIS WEEK

WAXAHACHIE, Feb. 8.—(P)—Schuyler B. Marshall, Jr., once known as the "College Kid Sheriff" of Dallas county, appeared in district court here today to defend himself on charges of burglary.

He was the first of four defendants to face trial in connection with an alleged attempt to burn the vault of the F. and M. State bank at Ferris the night of last November 17.

Accompanied by his attorneys, Jake Newberry and Maury Hughes, Marshall entered the courtroom shortly before 9 a. m., the hour his $10,000 bond was due to expire, and placed himself in the technical custody of Sheriff John Davenport.

Herbert Seales, young Dallas clubman and co-defendant in the case, appeared shortly afterward. J. Robert Kelly and H. W. McBride are other defendants in the case.

The court room was thronged with spectators as state and defense attorneys announced ready and submitted their lists of witnesses.

Marshall appeared in good spirits and confident of the outcome, shaking hands with acquaintances in the courthouse corridors and telling them he expected a prompt acquittal.

The four men also are charged with kidnapping and robbery for the alleged abduction of robbery of Bob Cunningham, night watchman at Ferris the same night.

Marshall and Seales are under bond in Tarrant county also, on charges of kidnapping and robbery in connection with the robbery and

ACTUAL WORK OF AIDING ECONOMIC RECOVERY STARTED

RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE
CORPORATION HAS DESIG-NATED 17 AGENCIES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(P)—Direct steps came from the administration today to hasten the progress of economic recovery.

Actual formation of the national organization to lead the anti-boarding campaign rested on the day's conferences between President Hoover and Colonel Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, who has been designated to lead it but the reconstruction finance corporation stepped into action.

It laid out a regional structure, with 17 loan agencies designated, and made its first commitment. It was a pledge to absorb any unsold part of a $15,000,000 debenture issue which the federal intermediate credit bank is offering today. It had in hand from the treasury $150,000,000 of the $500,000,000 capital the government is furnishing it.

Within a few days the 17 agencies designated will be functioning in offices of the federal reserve banks of the branches. Others will be announced later. Those decided on will be in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, El

JAPAN PLANS SEEK CHANGE IN NINE-POWER TREATY IN RESPECT CHINA-MANCHURIA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(P)—The United States looks on the proposal to demilitarize Chinese ports as reopening the question of the partition of China and will oppose such a move.

That position became clear at the state department today as officials gave their attention to unofficial reports of the position outlined in Tokyo. Officially, the question has not yet been brought to the attention of this government.

Hope for Peace

The appointment of Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura as commander of the Japanese forces in Chinese waters is seen as the first rift in the clouds that hover in the Far East. Admiral William V. Pratt, U. S. chief of naval operations, declared that the new Jap leader is a statesman as well as a sailor, and if anyone can clear up the delicate situation it is Nomura.

BODY MISSING GIRL FOUND IN BASEMENT HOUSE PHILADELPHIA

SUSPECT ARRESTED; EVIDENCE OF ATTACK FOUND;
MOTHER COLLAPSES

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8.—(P)—Attacked and choked to death, the body of seven-year-old Dorothy Lutz, who had been missing since Wednesday, was found today in a second floor room of a vacant house a few doors from her own home.

The body was found by two policemen who were among several hundred police and firemen engaged in an intensive search of the North Philadelphia neighborhood where the child lived with her widowed mother.

Last Thursday a negro family moved out of the home where the body was found.

Dorothy's mother, Mrs. Florence Lutz, collapsed when she learned the child had been slain.

A 58-year-old man who was arrested Saturday on a complaint that he was disorderly in the vicinity of a home for children was immediately subjected to questioning about Dorothy's death. Police said the woman who made the complaint against him stated he had asked her if she "could take care of a seven-year-old girl."

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8.—(P)—The body of seven-year-old Dorothy Lutz, who disappeared from her home last Wednesday, was found by police today in a vacant house in north Philadelphia, a few doors from her home. Police said there was evidence the child had been attacked before she was killed.

The body was found several hours after police and firemen began a door-to-door inquiry in search for some clue to the child's whereabouts.

The girl was last seen by her mother, Mrs. Florence Lutz, when

MACHINE GUNNERS CLAIMED TO HAVE KILLED 500 JAPS

REPORTS INDICATED CHI-NESE HELD FIRE AND LED INVADERS INTO TRAP

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS.
SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 9, (Tuesday)—(P)—As the firing across Chapei died out early this morning, as it usually does a little after midnight, Chinese headquarters announced that a machine gun section had mowed down 500 Japanese during the day's engagement.

It appeared that the Chinese had led the enemy into a trap, lying, quietly behind their sandbag barricades while the Japanese pushed out an advance column.

They let the column get deep into Chinese territory then opened up on them in front and on both flanks. It was a slaughter. Only a handful of survivors were able to get out headquarters last.

SHANGHAI, Tuesday, Feb. 9.—(P)—The terrific bombardment of Chapei by the Japanese and the furious reply of Chinese gunners came to a stop early today with little apparent change in the position of either side.

The battle around the Chinese native quarter before midnight had attained unparalleled proportions. The property damage within the international settlement was heavy.

Chinese shells aimed at Japanese headquarters in North Chapei fell repeatedly within the settlement and the explosion inflicted constant damage until the engagement stopped before 1:00 a. m.

Driven Into Basement.
So numerous were the shell hits around the settlement police station near the Japanese headquarters that the police were forced to retreat into the basement and sandbag doors and windows.

Explosions had broken all the windows in the station and had torn up the ground about it. The police force had been holding their heads, arers for ten days in the face of frequent shell fire, but last night's action was the worst they had yet faced.

It was difficult for observers to get close to Woosung, but the Associated Press correspondent entered the zone along the west bank of the Yangtze river.

The Japanese front line was at a considerable distance behind Woosung creek and the soldiers had occupied large numbers of Chinese houses and other buildings. The Japanese were in the office of the Shanghai-Woosung railroad.

Fire Burns Out.
Close by was the area where a great fire broke out day yesterday but tonight it was practically burned out. More than 300 buildings, most of them in the better class section had been destroyed.

A group of officers, asked why they had not crossed the creek into the city replied only that the Chinese machine-gun fire was too hot.

NAME COMMISSIONER TO HEAR TESTIMONY TEXACO OFFICIALS

ARGUMENTS RESUMED IN ALLRED'S MOTION FOR DEFAULT JUDGMENT

AUSTIN, Feb. 8.—(P)—George E. Shelley, Austin lawyer, was appointed today by Judge J. D. Moore of Travis county district court as special commissioner to take testimony in the oil trust ouster suit brought by Attorney General James W. Allred.

Shelley is president of the Texas State Bar Association. Feb. 15 was tentatively set to begin the taking of testimony in Austin from R. C. Holmes of New York, president and other officials of the Texas company, one of seventeen defendants the State seeks to drive from business in Texas and fine approximately $1,000,000 each for anti-trust law violations.

Arguments were resumed before Judge Moore on Allred's motion for default judgment against the Standard Oil Company of California, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Socony Vacuum Corporation of New York. They failed to file answers to his suit. Amicus curiae pleadings claim they are not within the court's jurisdiction. It was likely this point of law would occupy the time of the court all day.

JOE L. BERGIN IS NEW SUPERINTENDENT GREENVILLE SCHOOLS

SON OF REV. J. W. BERGIN AND WIFE IS GIVEN A DESERVED PROMOTION

Rounding out two years successful work as principal of the Greenville high school, Joe L. Bergin, son of Rev. and Mrs. John W. Bergin, of this city, has recently been elected to the superintendency of the Greenville public schools, according to information received in Corsicana Monday. Mr. Bergin succeeded L. C. Gee, who for twenty-five years was superintendent of the Greenville schools.

Mr. Bergin is a graduate of Temple high school, and received his A. B. degree at Southwestern University, where he was high in scholastic standing, and took part in many student activities. He was president of the Student's Association, and a star track man and football player. He is also continuing his study, by doing graduate work in the University of Texas, where he will receive his M. A. degree in the near future.

The new superintendent taught for three years in Hillsboro and returned as a faculty member and coach to Temple high school. He was next located as head of the history department of Forest high school, Dallas, and subsequently superintendent of the district-wide and nation-wide attention for several years. Mr. Bergin was then drafted as principal of the Greenville high school, and subsequently superintendent. During his administration as principal, Mr. Bergin made an enviable record both as an efficient school head, and as a citizen in Greenville.

soldiers would be excluded from these zones.

Such an agreement, he said, would recognize that some use of force is necessary to give China peace and stable government, whereas the nine-power pact is based on the principle of avoiding foreign interference in China.

The center it would be proposed to demilitarize are Shanghai, Canton, Hankow, Tientsin and Tientsin.

Japan, he said, intended to demilitarize Manchuria herself.

If the United States declined to participate directly, he said, the League of Nations might take the primary responsibility, with the United States lending support as it did in the League council's recent decisions.

As for American criticism of Japan's action in shelling the forts at Woosung, the spokesman asserted that was a military necessity because it would have been dangerous to transport troops through the Woosung Narrows as long as the forts were intact.

Further than that, he said, Woosung is the best place to land large bodies of troops if further disturbances in the international settlement are to be avoided.

Informal efforts were still going on today between the foreign office and the British and American ambassadors to find a formula for restoration of peace at Shanghai through the withdrawal of both Chinese and Japanese forces.

These officials were dealing only with the problem at Shanghai, recognizing that the action at Woosung constitutes still another problem.

No New Peace Plans By United States

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(P)—The United States is at present making no new diplomatic moves to halt the fighting between Japan and China but its officials today had a new issue to study.

Tokyo's suggestion for demilitarizing China's principal commercial cities through a pact substituting for the existing nine-power treaty was the latest development in a matter to view with the actual war dangers in the Shanghai zone in American attention.

Until this new angle arose, it appeared unlikely the powers seeking peace would make any immediate further proposals to Japan. They appeared to feel it was up to that nation to make overtures.

Whether the new suggestion, which it was indicated is being presented informally, would be held sufficient for a renewal of activity on the part of the United States, remained to be determined. However, it apparently lacks the one principal object sought by this country and that is immediate suspension of hostilities. Treaty negotiators takes forever even when all the parties are clearly in favor.

Anxiety over safety of Americans in Shanghai's international settlement remains here as tense as ever but protests or representations are being left to the diplomatic officers on the spot.

abduction of a power plant superintendent at Mansfield.

Immediately after both sides announced ready for trial, Robert Sullivan, Dallas attorney, presented a formal motion asking Judge Ball to issue a mandatory court order directing Sheriff Davenport to permit him to confer with H. W. McBride, another defendant in the case, who was being held incommunicado in the jail.

Sullivan claimed he sought unsuccessfully to talk with McBride yesterday and again today, although he had been employed to represent McBride.

McBride was listed as a state witness and was believed to be one of the alleged accomplices on whom the state was relying to make out its case against Marshall. He was the only one of the four defendants who had not made bond.

Judge Ball overruled Sullivan's motion. Sullivan said unless he was permitted to talk to the prisoner he would return to Dallas and sue out a writ of habeas corpus.

Newberry and Hughes, in questioning the first two prospective jurors, indicated clearly the defense would center about Marshall's claim the charges were "the result of political frame-up."

WAXAHACHIE, Feb. 8.—(P)—Dallas county sheriff, J. B. Marshall, Jr., former Dallas county sheriff, was called to appear in district court today to stand trial on a burglary charge. The one-time colorful peace officer was indicted in the attempted burglary of the E. and M. State bank at Ferris Nov. 17. Three others were charged with Marshall. They were Herbert Scates, Dallas clubman; J. Robert Kelly and H. W. McBride. Marshall's case was the first on call. The four also were charged with robbery in the kidnapping of Bob Cunningham, Ferris nightwatchman, the same night.

Jake E. Newberry and Maury Hughes were here to represent the former sheriff. They said they would announce ready. Archie D. Gray, district attorney, said the prosecution also would be ready.

Marshall termed the charges against him "the outgrowth of a political frame-up." His counsel said 40 persons living in or near Dallas had been summoned to testify concerning his character.

she left the house to play. Several reports were received that a child answering her description had been seen talking to men on the streets some distance from her home but investigation failed to reveal any workable clue.

The body was found in the cellar of the vacant house. The child's mother, who had never given up hope the girl would be found alive, collapsed when told of the discovery. A suspect was arrested.

The body was left as it was found until fingerprint experts arrived and made a close examination of the girl's torn clothing. Later it was taken to the morgue where the coroner's physician will perform an autopsy.

Forty Killed In Storm That Swept Reunion Island

PARIS, Feb. 8.—(P)—A least 45 persons were killed and many more injured in the storm which struck Reunion Island last Thursday according to reports from St. Denis, a city on the island. The report indicated loss of life might be found to have been even heavier when reports from isolated districts came in.

The inhabitants on the various towns of the island were reported to have taken refuge in churches, schools and aboard ships in the harbor at St. Pierre.

The French government has taken measures to aid the victims.

Reunion, or Bourbon, is in the Mascarene group about 450 miles off east of Madagascar. Of volcanic origin, it is divided by a chain of mountains and a table land into two parts. The population, mostly of French nativity, is around 200,000.

In a month or two serious tests of strength between the men will come. New Hampshire's primary may yield no real conflict but April 5 will find New York choosing 86 of her 94 delegates. The result is now beyond authoritative forecast. Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries come April 26. New Jersey will decide May 17.

ATLANTA, Jan. 29.—(P)—Atlanta Journal: "Reduced to its essence, former Governor Smith's statement contains two unqualified assertions, namely: 'I will not make a pre-convention campaign to secure the support of delegates,' and 'I shall not, in advance of the convention, support or oppose any aspirant for the nomination.' These plain words should put an end to rumors that he intends to take the field against his faithful friend, Franklin D. Roosevelt, a course which would have been strangely out of keeping with Al Smith's famous magnanimity. Moreover, he thus eliminates himself from the primaries in which the party's rank and file will declare their choice of prospective nominees."

her, was the one who inflicted the wounds which caused the death of Agnes Anne LeRoi and Hedvig Samuelson.

The name of Jack Halloran, Phoenix lumberman, was brought into the testimony by Dr. Joseph Catton, state alienist, when he testified Mrs. Judd told him on prolonged love affair with the lumberman.

"Standing before you when witnesses were sworn—holding up his right hand to be sworn," Lewkowitz told the jury was Jack Halloran. But did the county attorney call the name of Halloran for any one to hear? No! Subpoenaed as a witness, did Halloran testify before you? No!

Lewkowitz administered a verbal lashing to Dr. Catton, who declined to agree with any of the psychiatrist authorities propounded to him by defense counsel in cross examination.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 8.—(P)—By late today the fate of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, alleged slayer of her two former friends, Mrs. Agnes Anne LeRoi and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, probably will be placed in the hands of the jury.

Only the summing up of the evidence for and against the young wife of a physician and Superior Judge's court juryman's instructions to the jury remained this morning. A quick verdict was predicted by both state and defense counsel. Testimony was completed Saturday.

The jurors have for their deliberation the defense's contention that Mrs. Judd was insane when she killed the two women Oct. 16, placed their bodies in trunks and sent them to Los Angeles, and the state's allegation the killings were motivated by jealousy over attention paid the two women by J. J. Halloran, wealthy Phoenix lumber dealer and mutual friend of the three.

If found guilty of first degree murder, Mrs. Judd can be sent to the gallows.

In the present trial, Mrs. Judd is being tried only on the slaying of Mrs. LeRoi. The state has announced that in event the death penalty is not exacted, it will bring recommendations to the jury for the killing of Miss Samuelson.

F. E. Roberts, interstate chairman National Murray for President Club's national headquarters, 707 Ritz building, Tulsa, Okla., and 306 Perrine Building, Oklahoma City, Okla., was in Corsicana Monday in the interest of Governor Murray's candidacy for the democratic presidential nomination.

Mr. Roberts made only a short stay as he was en route to Houston but stated he expected to return at an early date at which time he would perfect an organization in Navarro county to further Governor Murray's candidacy.

"The Murray boom is growing daily," Mr. Roberts stated, and we expect to enter the Chicago convention with a sufficient number of votes to cause more than a mere ripple when the roll call starts.

Conference With Federal Officials

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(P)—Swinging into his task of creating and leading an organization to free approximately $1,500,000,000 of hoarded money, Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, started today a round of conferences with federal officials.

He obtained President Hoover's ideas of the organization at a breakfast table parley at the white house. He had conferred with Charles G. Dawes, president of the reconstruction finance corporation, after Knox arrived at the capital last night.

At the white house the publisher was informed by President Hoover of the pledge from more than 40 national associations that their 20,000,000 members are prepared to cooperate in a united anti-hoarding campaign. If successful, the president estimates it will add $10,000,000,000 to the nation's credit volume.

Knox planned to return to the executive mansion for another conference later in the day. In the meantime he gathered from other government financial leaders their ideas for the anti-hoarding organization.

Pilot Point Bank Robbers Have Not Been Apprehended

PILOT POINT, Feb. 8.—(P)—Earl Selz, cashier of the Pilot Point National Bank, which was robbed of $8,000 in cash and $11,000 in Liberty bonds early Saturday, today identified the picture of an escaped convict from the Texas penitentiary as one of the men involved in the robbery.

The robbers kidnapped Selz from his home and took him to the bank with the intent of forcing him to open the vault. He said he was unable to do so and they then kidnapped J. Winston Fuel, assistant cashier, who was forced to unlock the outer door. The inner door was blown open with nitro glycerin.

Selz said he obtained a good look at one of the robbers when the man stepped into a lighted room at his home. He said the man's appearance was identical with that of a convict's picture on file at police headquarters.

Officers had been unable to capture any of the robbers, who fled northward in an automobile after the robbery. Selz's identification was the first clue as to who the robbers might be.

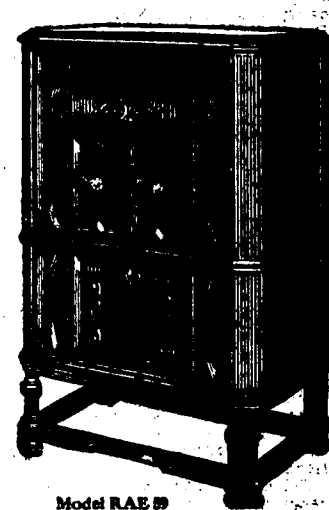

PILOT POINT, Feb. 8.—(P)—Three masked men who early Saturday robbed the Pilot Point National Bank of $8,000 in cash and $11,000 in Liberty bonds remained at large today. State rangers and other officers were without a clue as to their whereabouts.

The six Pilot Point residents who were held captive when the robbery was in progress examined photographs of 100 North Texas police characters. They were unable to identify any as members of the trio.

Mellon Quits Treasury Post Early Saturday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Confirmed by the senate an ambassador to England, Andrew W. Mellon ceased today to be secretary of the treasury, a post he has filled for nearly 11 years. In a tribute to the man which dent Hoover pointed it out, the senate approved the selection for the important diplomatic post within four hours of the time the president submitted his name. A chorus of "ayes" at the end of yesterday's session closed the senate's business. Within minutes of this time Mr. Hoover had submitted the nomination of Ogden L. Mills to be secretary in Mellon's stead. The senate had adjourned and approval must wait until Monday. Speedy action on this nomination is sought by the administration and promised by the senate leadership.

Mellon will not sail to present his credentials for some weeks. He needs a rest, which he expects to take down south, and then private

CORNICANA, TEX., FEB. 5, 1932.

On every hand, by word of mouth and in the press are heard commendations of the Democrats in Congress for expediting the relief measures proposed by the Administration, and the President himself in signing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill made acknowledgment of the non-partisan co-operation he received. It was therefore a matter of surprise that three Administration spokesmen should have taken this particular time, when the Democratic members of the Senate were giving earnest aid to measures designed, at least, to lighten the depression, to inject partisan notes into the situation.

DEMOCRATS CO-OPERATE.

The first of these come from Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, who made an address in New York, in which, according to the Associated Press report, he "laid the blame for economic ills on the doorstep of the Democrats," and made the serious charge that the difficult and economic international problems grew out of loans made by the Wilson Administration, "nearly $2,000,000,000 of them, after the war and without legal right to do so."

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who, as Secretary of the Treasury at the time, was named in the accusation, called the attention of the Senate to Secretary Hyde's charge, and characterized it as a "malicious fabrication . . . in spirit and in text false from beginning to end."

The Senator presented a letter from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon confirming the legality of the loans referred to as in strict conformity with the Liberty Loan Acts, which fact, Senator Glass said, the Secretary of Agriculture might have learned by inquiry at the Cabinet table.

Senator Fess of Ohio, who is also the titular head of the Republican National Committee, attempted to bolster up the Hyde accusation by asserting that he had voted against some of the foreign loans, but Senator Glass recalled that the loans under discussion "were made by the Treasury Department with the approval of the President, and Congress never acted on one of them," and therefore that the Senator "had no opportunity to vote against any of them."

It transpired that the loans which Senator Fess asserted he had voted against were issued in the Harding Administration, and one of them was a loan solicited by the present President of the United States.

No one, of course, accused the Ohio Senator of making a willful misstatement concerning his vote, although, it is recalled, Senator Fess once admitted on the floor of the Senate on another occasion that he had made a statement to newspaper correspondents, following a visit to the White House, that "was not true." His excuse was that he wanted "to get it across."

The third partisan note was sounded by Secretary of War Hurley, generally accredited as Mr. Hoover's pre-convention campaign manager, in a speech at Chicago, giving Mr. Hoover credit for everything done to relieve the depression. After repeating a frequently made statement by Administration partisans that the President "was the target of vicious propaganda to defame his character and ability . . . to gain a political advantage," Secretary Hurley declared:

"But even the critics have been driven by the people are not so gullible."

JUST FOLKS

REVALUATION

Let us be sensible; let us be men! Yesterday never is coming again. Tomorrow the future for us has been laid out in store.

It will be different from what's gone before. The old days are over, the new days are here. And property's worth what it sells for this year.

Let's be courageous and let's face the truth. In their fifties no longer have youth. To sigh for lost pleasures and costumes is vain. Old dogs can never be puppies again.

We may wish for the past fill our faces turn black. But the thing that was yesterday never comes back!

We have known laughter and sunshine, but now we must brave tempest and trial somehow. Once life seemed pleasant, but now it is stern. A new set of values today we must learn.

A new code of courage, a rough weather creed, And faith in tomorrow are things that we need. (Copyright, 1932, Edgar A. Guest) to adopt the President's program." The connection between these two statements is regarded as more or less obvious, to the effect that the critics who have "defamed the President's character" are the ones who were "forced to adopt his program," that is to say, the Democratic membership in Congress.

It has been frequently shown in public statements issued by responsible Democratic spokesmen, and fortified with exact quotations, that the only persons who have ever attacked the character of Mr. Hoover have been leaders of his own party, or the one to which he now belongs.

The statement of Senator Glass, in refuting the charge by Secretary Hyde and confuting the statement by Senator Fess, is also regarded here as having a direct implication in the speech by Secretary of War Hurley. Senator Glass said:

"I say it (the Hyde charge) is false in spirit because, everybody here in Washington knows that there has been no attempt by the leaders of the Democratic party to project any partisan issue over the deplorable state of this country. All Senators know that there has been a remarkable demonstration of co-operation on this side of the Chamber with the other side of the Chamber in enacting legislation proposed by the President of the United States for the relief of this unhappy situation. . . . Some of us on both sides of the Chamber have felt obliged to lay aside traditional convictions, have felt obliged to subordinate important party principles of faith in order to co-operate in this general movement for the relief of the country from the disastrous consequences of the prevailing depression. Therefore, now for the Secretary of Agriculture to make party politics of this question is distinctly unbecoming and justifies the assertion here that his statement in spirit is malicious and untrue."

CLOUDS IN THE PACIFIC.

Americans reading the news from Manchuria and from Shanghai will be mistaken if they suppose that they are witnessing in those quarters nothing more than a clash of diplomatic purposes. They are witnessing a conflict of temperaments, philosophies and moralities as well.

Our own political thinking has always been befuddled by sentimentalism. We go persistently on the assumption that right and what we call goodness must always prevail. The governing class in Japan, and particularly that section of it now in the saddle, is composed of hard-bitten realists. In their system of reasoning and action the needs, desires and interests of Japanese nationalism are first considerations. Sentiments of courtesy, tolerance and abstract justice count in their philosophy about as heavily as such obstructions counted with the first conquerors of Europe.

To achieve and to achieve in the name of Japan and the Japanese is the first law of nature with the Japanese fatalists now directing the campaign of expansion against the Chinese.

Some parents have perished small children, and some have been driven by the people are not so gullible.

LONGER LIFE.

While he agrees that the United States is under-populated and Europe over-populated, a European visitor to this country advises that this country would benefit itself and Europe by absorbing the latter's surplus population, but an observer from Australia believes the United States could increase wages and therefore its purchasing power by enforcing more rigid immigration restrictions.

For some years past this nation has been committed to the Australian's philosophy, and has gone farther by not complaining of its unsettled and untitled lands. One thing is certain. If Europe continues to increase its surplus population it will not be due, as in the past, to a reckless birth rate. The overcrowded European countries are more concerned with lowering the death rate than with increasing the birth rate.

Before the World war there was much concern over birth rates and "race suicide." The governments were little interested in the rate of death of women and men past military age, but they kept informed on the variations in the birth rate and cultivated a high rate of the pensioning of parents and other schemes.

It is significant that since the war these same nations have been striving to lower the death rate and have not troubled themselves over declining birth rates. It is even discovered now that the race suicide so much talked of in France before the war was due not to a low birth rate but to a high death rate.

DEAN OF PILOTS.

Another adventurer of the air has finished his flying time after a life given altogether to the service of aviation. Eddie Stinson was among the pioneers, a student under the Wright brothers, an instructor of pilots in the World war, a maker of records and the acknowledged title holder for length of air service.

The Aeronautical International credits him with more than 14,000 hours of flying, which is probably a conservative estimate. This means that he had spent five years of eight-hour days in the air when he died at last in a forced landing.

It is unfortunate for aviation that so many of its best men should end their careers in accident. The wisest ones, perhaps, are those who turn over the controls to newcomers and devote their energies to other aeronautical affairs. But there is something gallant in the end of

POSTAL BANKS' USEFULNESS.

The measure now being considered by the house postoffice committee, raising the maximum for individual deposits in the postal savings banks from $2,500 to $10,000, is a part of the legislation framed to help the country out of depression.

Assistant Postmaster General Tilson estimates that the increase in permissible deposits would draw out of hoarding a billion and a half of dollars. The estimate may be exaggerated, but the great increase in deposits, bringing the total to more than $595,000,000 on January 1, whereas on December 30, 1930, it was but $164,000,000, shows that the security of the government's name has been very potent to attract money that in all probability would otherwise be unproductively hoarded.

The postal savings system was not intended to compete with the regular savings institutions or banks. There is every reason to believe the increase of the limit at this time would help those banks. It would not in the main divert money from them; it would bring out money that would otherwise remain hidden away. That money re-deposited, as it would be, in the banks, would increase the amount available for investment and for loans, thus bringing about a much-needed expansion of credit.

Furthermore, it would have an important psychological effect in diminishing the fear—which is very real, however unreasonable—which leads to hoarding. The bank-shy habit once overcome by the potency of the Government's name, all banks stand to profit. The low rate of interest paid by the postal banks will prevent them from becoming a formidable rival of the regular banks once the existing abnormal conditions pass.

The man who sticks to a dangerous occupation, principally because he prefers it to easier and safer services. And Eddie Stinson, pioneer, engineer and manufacturer, remained a pilot to the end.

The ski jumper is an intrepid figure, but think of the cameraman lying out there on his stomach in the snow, to make the jump seem 40 feet high.

Was he the greatest secretary of the treasury since Hamilton because of the greatest deficit?

J. N. EDENS NAMED BY GOV. STERLING ON IMPORTANT BODY

MEMBER TEXAS ADVISORY COMMITTEE TO RECONSTRUCTION CORPORATION

Members of the Texas advisory committee to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, two billion dollar credit organization recently created by congress, will devote their first efforts toward securing a proper portion of the funds for this state and then devote themselves to assisting in the distribution according to J. N. Edens, president of the First National bank. Mr. Edens was recently appointed to a post of the committee by Governor R. S. Sterling.

John W. Carpenter, former Corisican resident, now president of the Texas Power and Light company, heads the advisory group. Mr. Edens said that he recognized the appointment to the committee as a distinct honor, because of the very important problems which will confront the group, and declared that he was highly pleased to represent this section of Texas on the board.

Definite activity for the state group is mainly confined at present to preliminary surveys of needs, according to Mr. Edens, while the board of directors of the national finance corporation and members of congress decide upon a method of procedure. It is believed that the funds will be distributed through the various federal reserve banks in the nation.

Mr. Edens said that the state committee had two important functions; the first was to determine the amount of funds that would be properly needed, and then to make every effort to secure an adequate appropriation after the appropriation is secured the committee will be engaged in assisting the federal reserve bank in distribution.

The gigantic credit fund of two billion dollars should act as a great stabilizer to present business conditions, enabling the return to circulation of numerous "frozen assets," and will enable the banks to assist worthy organizations to an extent impossible under present conditions. It will enable many banks to relieve themselves of "paper pressure" and will make eligible loans for longer periods of time. Special emphasis was placed on building and loan aid when the measure was presented.

(Continued from page 1.) The measure is the beginning of the present session. Further announcements concerning the workings of the national organization, and the functioning of the state advisory group will be made in the near future, Mr. Edens said.

Turning to local conditions, Mr. Edens declared it to be his belief that Corisican had a full measure of confidence in the inevitable return of the country was in a safe and sane condition, and were suffering less from fear than many other sections. He declared that he had reason to believe that there was less hoarding of money in this vicinity than in many others.

Navarro county farmers have faced their tasks for the year with sincerity and earnestness, have overcome the major portion of their discouragement and are preparing to raise one of the cheapest crops in the history of the county, he declared, that he did not believe that the reduction of the cotton acreage reduction statute was unconstitutional would have any marked effect, because few of the farmers or ranchmen in the cotton industry had ever taken the measure seriously.

Cotton Acreage Cut From information gathered in the past few weeks, Mr. Edens said he anticipated a decrease in cotton acreage in Navarro county of about 15 per cent from the 1931 acreage, which coupled with a 10 per cent cut last year, will approximate a reduction of one-fourth in production of cotton in Navarro county.

Under favorable conditions such as were experienced last year will be less abundant both during the growing and harvesting seasons.

Mr. Edens declared that he believed that greatly improved conditions were slowly but surely moving forward, and with the rebuilding of public confidence, the great single factor, the time for the arrival of better times would be hastened materially.

Ample Funds for Business For a business point, he declared, that almost every community was able to finance, and while there would be no money for speculation, there would be ample funds for the prosecution of almost any legitimate enterprise.

The Texas advisory committee is composed of a number of outstanding business men from all parts of the state, including: Former Governor Dan Moody, J. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture; Representative R. M. Hubbard of New Boston; Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls; Joe Frost, San Antonio; Elliott Harding, Fort Worth; R. L. Thornton, Dallas; J. S. Allison, San Antonio; H. L. Kokernot, San Antonio; J. N. Edens, Corisican; Nathan Adams, Dallas; James H. Sammons, Dallas; J. B. Amador, Amarillo; Richard King, Corpus Christi; P. B. Doty, Beaumont; D. B. Sheeks, Port Arthur; H. L. Birney, El Paso; C. C. Belcher, Del Rio; E. Dorchester, Sherman; Gus F. Taylor, Tyler; Richard Gill, San Antonio.

MUCH INFLUENZA REPORTED IN BOTH CITY AND COUNTY

Influenza in epidemic proportions was reported in Corisican and Navarro county Friday, but no accurate survey could be made on the number of cases. A large number of absences were reported in the Corisican public schools, principally attributable to the disease.

Dr. Dan B. Hammil, county health officer, reported that the influenza epidemic condition in Corisican was not improved Friday, but maintained that the larger percentage of the cases were of the mild type; several cases of pneumonia resulting or following influenza were reported, with some of them fatal. As a whole, he reported the disease was not severe.

An increase in the number of absences in the city schools was reported Friday with a total of 406 students and one teacher out compared with 383 students and one teacher on Wednesday; a net gain for the disease of 43.

The junior high school led the list with 121 absences, and the others reported as follows: Wilbur R. officials 82, Robert E. Lee 46, David Crockett 36, Senior high 28, Sam Houston 35, Austin school 17.

Three Hundred Cases at Plainview

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 5.—(Sp.)—Health officials at Plainview reported 300 mild cases of influenza in Plainview. It was estimated that 11 per cent of the city's school children were ill with the disease.

Epidemic Subsidizing in Wichita Falls

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 5.—(Sp.)—Clear, cold weather of the last two days appears to have aided materially in checking the influenza epidemic here and school and health authorities reported to day many persons were returning to school or work.

Charlie Douglas, Henderson county farmer, was found guilty of "murder with malice aforethought" by the jury in his trial for the slaying of Miss Texana Hall, his sister-in-law, last year, Friday afternoon, and his punishment was fixed at twenty-three years in the penitentiary. The jury returned to the courtroom at 2:15 o'clock after having deliberated since 8:30 o'clock Friday morning. The verdict of the jury was read in open court by District Judge Hawkins Scarborough at 2:30 o'clock.

Richard Sigler, defense attorney, stated he did not know exactly whether the case would be appealed. He expected a motion for a new trial will be filed within the proper time limit and in the event the motion is over-ruled, an appeal to the court of criminal appeals, Austin, can be taken.

Only a small crowd of people were in the courtroom when the verdict was returned.

Night Session

Arguments of the attorneys were concluded at the night session Thursday evening. The charge of District Judge Scarborough was given the jury to consider at the opening of the Thursday afternoon session and Cleo G. Miller, criminal district attorney of Navarro county, opened the arguments before the jury in the case. Miller was followed by Richard Sigler and W. D. Justice, both Athens attorneys and defense counsel. At the conclusion of the argument of Attorney Justice, the afternoon session was concluded and Cleo G. Miller, of Palestine, special prosecutor, closed for the state, at the night session. The case went to the jury about 9 o'clock Thursday night.

Trial Attracts Attention

The trial has attracted considerable attention and the courtroom and balconies had been packed to capacity at practically all of the sessions since the case was called for trial Monday morning and the arguments of the attorneys neared completion. The case was continued at the October term of the district court due to illness of witnesses.

Douglas still faces another indictment for murder in connection with the shooting of Davis January, a son-in-law, the same night Miss Hall was slain. That case has not been set for trial this term.

Here on Venue Change

The cases were sent here from Henderson county on a change of venue by District Judge Ben Dent a short time after the indictment was returned against Douglas by the Henderson county grand jury. The shootings occurred on the night of April 12, 1931. A shotgun was alleged to have been used by the defendant.

It was alleged that Douglas was arraigned on the indictment for the slaying of Miss Hall, and a motion for a suspended sentence in the event of conviction was made. Douglas took the stand in his own behalf and testified he shot Davis January because he (Douglas) feared his (Douglas) the shooting of Miss Hall was accidental.

Many witnesses and interested citizens from Henderson county were on hand during the progress of the trial and were augmented by hundreds of Corisican and Navarro county people.

HOOVER OBTAINED PLEDGE OF SUPPORT ANTI-HOARDING DRIVE

PRESIDENT MAKES AN IMPROMPTU APPEAL LEADERS NATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—President Hoover today obtained a unanimous pledge from two score national civic organizations to join in a unified campaign to stop money hoarding that stifles business rejuvenation.

After an executive conference on Thursday and a half at the White House, at which the President pleaded for aid, it was disclosed by Charles G. Dawes that Mr. Hoover had obtained a pledge of support.

Machinery of a definite campaign organization, contemplated by the President, was left to a further meeting.

Instructions were agreed on under which Colonel Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, will work out a plan of procedure to be submitted to the same group this week.

After addresses by the president, Dawes and Acting Secretary Mills of the treasury, the meeting heard speeches by more than half a dozen of its members.

The speaker was by John Thomas Taylor, legislative representative of the American Legion, who said:

"More than 1,250,000 legionnaires are behind you, Mr. President."

Farmers Aid Plans

On leaving the meeting Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, issued a statement on "organized agriculture's three step program for the restoration of national prosperity."

It included a 25 per cent cut in governmental costs to be brought about by reorganization, "a change in our credit structure to provide reorganization of the basis of wealth, coupled with adjustments in our monetary system," and "a restoration of the purchasing power of agriculture."

In an official summary of the meeting put out by the white house it was said the assembly gave assurance that "the whole 20,000,000 members of the organizations represented would organize to 'carry forward this campaign of appeal to reason and patriotism and to action.'"

The white house statement follows:

The president, General Dawes and Under Secretary Mills reviewed the situation. The meeting was directed to a general discussion of the means and measures of organization to meet the problems of hoarding.

It was agreed that hoarding had accumulated to the extent of $1,250,000,000 or $1,500,000,000; that its results were to immobilize a large portion of the national gold supply and cause drastic deflation and credit contraction, and seriously to affect commodity prices.

It was pointed out by many of the leaders of the national associations that a dollar hoarded not only ceases to perform its function as currency, but destroys $5 to $10 potential credit.

Hoarded Dollar Useless

"A dollar in the hands of a hoarder is just a dollar, but a hoarded dollar in the hands of a spender or a wise investor will furnish the basis for $10 of credit."

"As some of the representatives expressed it, that currency is a high powered dollar. Hoarded currency means that high powered dollar is idle, and that it turns into a dead weight, idle men and depreciated prices."

"It was agreed that a large portion of the hoarding was due to misunderstanding of the national effects of such action, and that it was necessary to allay fears and apprehension and that nothing could contribute more to the resumption of employment, to the stability of agriculture and other commodity prices than to restore this money to work. This would turn the tide of depression on the way to prosperity."

Intensive Campaign

"It was unanimously agreed that all the national associations represented and others to be invited to place the full strength and force of their memberships behind a patriotic campaign to be conducted under the leadership of Col. Frank Knox to put these hoarded dollars to work, that the organization should be set up state by state in which work all organizations would participate with view to setting up ultimately a definite working organization in each community."

The wide conference expressed its resolution that the time had now arrived for the people themselves to enter into the fight against depression and give full support to the measures taken by government to make them completely effective."

"The conference expressed its great appreciation of the leadership taken by the federal government in the creation of the reconstruction finance corporation and other measures, and that the time has arrived to rally the people themselves not only against hoarding but for the general expansion of employment and to turn the economic tide."

The leaders gave assurance that the whole twenty million members of the organizations represented at the meeting would take it as their special mission to organize and carry forward this campaign of appeal to reason and patriotism and to action."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Behind the closed doors of his cabinet room, President Hoover in an extemporaneous speech outlined to about fifty civic leaders his plans for creating an anti-hoarding machine.

He was flanked by Acting Secretary Mills of the treasury and Charles G. Dawes, president of the construction finance corporation. White House officials promised a joint statement after the closed meeting.

The chief executive, in his address to the leaders of more than two score national organizations, stressed that the American monetary system depends on a mobile currency and that the $1,300,000,000 hoarded is hoarded has caused a credit deflation of approximately $10,000,000,000.

The President had figures to show that partially because of hoarding and partially because of depressed security values, the gold backing of currency by the federal reserve system has risen from the legal 40 per cent to between 75 and 80 per cent.

Mr. Hoover said in his customary cabinet chair, with a small table before him. As the meeting assembled, Dawes circulated about the crowd, smoking his familiar underslung pipe.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion, were early arrivals. They have been working together in preparation for an intensive drive against unemployment, designed to put one million men back to work.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—The generals of President Hoover's anti-hoarding army assembled today to receive mobilization orders and lay campaign plans.

Some fifty heads of national organizations, embracing commercial, trade, labor, religious, social and civic groups, gathered at the White House to hear from Mr. Hoover in person what he wants them to do toward persuading holders of more than a billion and a quarter hoarded dollars to return the money to circulation.

A national organization will be formed and Colonel Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, will head it. The choice was announced by the President last week. Knox, who lives in New Hampshire, planned to get here the first of next week. Prospects were headquarters of the central group, which is to coordinate the educational efforts of local organizations in every community, will be set up in Chicago.

On hand for today's meeting was Charles G. Dawes, president of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, who has one of the major tasks of the general campaign to restore credit flow in the dry channels of business.

Dawes planned to supplement the President's remarks to the group with an explanation of his own. Linked with the administration plan, but spontaneous in character, an American Legion drive was outlined to get a million unemployed men to work within a month. Henry L. Stevens, commander of the Legion, here laid his plan before President Hoover.

Of Prohibition Is

Charged by Wets

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—A total just under eleven billion dollars is the estimate of the cost of prohibition made by the Association against the prohibition Amendment.

This figure was given in a statement issued by the organization yesterday, calling on congress again to submit the question of repeal to the people. The association also estimated that enforcement of $300,000,000 and the "national drink bill" at $28,414,949,600.

Nomination of Mills Was Sent Senate Monday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—The names of Ogden L. Mills to be secretary of the treasury and of Arthur A. Ballantine to replace him as undersecretary were sent to the senate today by President Hoover.

The President sent the nominations to the senate last Friday, but the senate had adjourned over the week-end before they arrived, necessitating their transmission again today.

Mills has been acting secretary since Andrew Mellon was confirmed by the senate several days ago as American ambassador to the Court of St. James.

SPORT NOTES

By PAUL MOORE — Sun Sports Editor

Class B teams of Navarro county will engage in the interscholastic basketball tournament on the local Y. M. C. A. Friday and Saturday of this week, and the director Leroy Crabtree is expecting about 50 teams to compete. Emhouse, Navari, Mildred and Emmett are hoped to be strong contenders for the title this year and there is a likelihood that a new champion may develop. The winner of the tournament will oppose the class A champ the following Tuesday for the county title and the right to represent Navarro county in the district tournament in Hillsboro.

Should Corsicana high win the A. title, the Tigers will be handicapped in playing the championship tilt on the Y. M. C. A. court.

The conductor of this column is of the opinion the county teams should play their tournaments and championship games on a regulation court as all other championship engagements will be staged on regulation courts. However, those in charge of the competition want it played on the smaller court, and it is all right with the writer, but it does not look exactly fair to have clubs with regulation courts play on the smaller court, and handicap the chances of the county winner to successfully compete in the later competition.

Strickland, Baylor forward, moved to the front in the individual scoring race of the Southwest conference last week and now has 77 points. Too Tall Diesel of C. U. is second with 66 and Kurich of Texas and Sexton of Arkansas are tied for third with 52 each.

Floyd Bone, professional at the Corsicana Country Club, shot a 227 in the Houston Colonial Country Club golf tournament during the week-end and placed fifth and won $100. Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, Mo., who has been winning consistently in the Southern tournaments, won first place with 224 and $500 prize.

Funeral services for Baranay Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, were held Sunday at Pittsburgh.

Arkansas handed the Baylor Bears the first Southwest conference defeat of the season Saturday night, 42-31, after the Bears had won five games in a row. T. C. U. pulled closer to the Bears by brushing the Texas Longhorns, 36-14. T. C. U. has won three out of four conference tilts and is in second place.

The Tigers are due to play Highland Park in Dallas Monday and Tuesday nights. Corsicana won the games played in Corsicana with the Highlanders, but will likely have a considerable competition on the Dallas court.

Cleburne high school football prospects for the 1932 football season have already started spring practice, and about fifty prospective players are working out daily. The Jacks play and think football the year around and pay little attention to any other sports. In other words, Cleburne will about come out the classification of a football town exclusively.

The first game Saturday will be at 9 o'clock, and Friday's schedule will be repeated. Semi-final and final games will be played Saturday night, between 6 and 9 o'clock, and the final game between Class A and B teams will be at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. The Class A finalist will be determined on the Y. M. C. A. court Saturday night.

Athletic Director Crabtree announced the following prices of admission: All Friday morning and afternoon games 25 cents; Friday night games 25 cents; all Saturday morning and afternoon games 25 cents, and all Saturday night games 25 cents.

Danny Lynch and W. C. Lynch, both of Dallas, have been secured for the basketball tournament. The entire tournament, Danny Lynch is coach of the "Golden Cyclones," one time National A. A. U. champions and worked last year's tournament.

Basketball Supreme.

As there are no football teams among the Class B schools of Navarro county, all attention of the athletic fans is focused on basketball, and the basketball season is an enthusiastic group of supporters and pep squads. Interest in the cage game has been rampant this year, and every practice game between the teams is eagerly watched by the members' systems, plus the heavy nervous strain of this season, has been responsible.

Demands on congressmen this season have exceeded anything in the memory of the oldest members. Not so much the floor sessions as an intensive schedule of committee work had unparalleled demands from the home districts have caused this.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—A stiff warning was given members of congress today that they are overworked and must take better care of their health.

The capitol's attending physician, Dr. George W. Calver, spoke out sharply against the seven-day week schedule many have been following this session. At the same time, he urged the public to be reasonable in its demands upon representatives.

His warning was caused by the sudden death of Representative Quinn of Mississippi and Rutherford of Georgia and the recent collapse of Chairman Collier of the house ways and means committee. All three broke under the strain of committee work. Collier, however, is recovering.

It developed also that, although carefully guarded from the public, about half the members of congress have had to call for medical attention during the past two months. Calver said an outbreak of a mild influenza, accounting for previously unlooked weaknesses in the members' systems, plus the heavy nervous strain of this session, has been responsible.

NEW JERSEY SENATOR PLANS URGE REPUBLICANS PUT WET PLANK IN PLATFORM OF 1932

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. (AP)—Senator W. Warren Barbour of New Jersey announced today he would urge the Republican national convention to adopt a wet plank in its 1932 platform.

Barbour, who succeeded the late Dwight H. Morrow in the senate, made public his stand in a telegram addressed to Edgar A. Knapp of Red Bank, N. J., who had asked for his position.

Barbour believed, he said, "that there is a majority sentiment against the prohibition law as it exists and that the Republican party should not and cannot afford to longer ignore the facts of experience of the last decade and a half have shown conclusively that the prohibition law as now framed is impossible of enforcement and that the evils that have resulted are far more serious than the good it is claimed could be accomplished."

He asserted he considered prohibition second in importance only to the economy question, and unemployment and that he strongly favored, a courageous anti-prohibition stand by the party.

"I intend to urge strongly on the delegates to my state the Republican national convention that such a plank be incorporated in the platform."

Barbour's statement followed closely the declaration of Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania for a state liquor control amendment to the constitution and modification of the Volstead law. This was severely criticized last night by E. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, who asserted that while the Davis stand implied a conversion to the wet cause it "in reality represents a surrender to the arbitrary demands of the ruthless wet ware machine."

NO MORE FORECASTS TO BE MADE ON PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS BY GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. (AP)—The agriculture department will make no more public forecasts on the probable course of prices for farm products.

This decision was reached because of pronounced differences among its experts on the 1932 farm outlook and in the light of reports from the bureau of agricultural economics.

"The bureau, under its present policy, makes no public forecast of the probable course of the farm situation."

By contract, a year ago the bureau issued an outlook report citing prospect for gradual recovery in domestic demand for farm products in the last half of the year, "based on the belief that the world-wide economic depression will have run the worst of its course by the summer of 1931."

Barbour's declaration, on the 1932 prospect showed little of federal and state economists. Some saw very cheerful signs, others a gloomy picture, and the department decided to play safe.

A few years ago the department was prohibited by law from making any forecast of the price of its cotton crop reports cited prospects for a price drop. The market took a nose dive right then and there. Aroused Southern legislators were not satisfied until they had clapped a muzzle on the department.

To Use Boycott In Effort Force Tariff On Oil Importation

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 8. (AP)—Civic organizations of Dallas and Tyler, Tex., are in sympathy with the need for a tariff on oil but cannot join in the campaign directed at New England manufacturers," said a letter from the Tyler Chamber of Commerce.

Adams has sent letters to many business firms in Texas and other Southern oil states urging them to join the fight for an oil tariff.

Municipal Economies Urged by Lumbermen

FORT WORTH, Feb. 8. (AP)—Adoption of policies of strictest economy by municipal, state and national governments was urged in a resolution passed by officers and directors of the Texas Lumbermen's association in session here today.

Association officials, together with officers and directors of the Texas Lumber Retail Dealers' association, an organization with a membership of 100,000, were here to plan for the state convention which will be held here April 12-14.

J. S. Adams, chairman of the Oklahoma City oil tariff campaign committee, said today:

"We are in sympathy with the need for a tariff on oil but cannot join in the campaign directed at New England manufacturers," said a letter from the Tyler Chamber of Commerce.

PLAN TOURNAMENT INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE BASKETBALL

Final plans for the determination of the interscholastic Class B basketball champion of Navarro county, at the Y. M. C. A. Friday and Saturday, were being worked out today by Leroy Crabtree, athletic director. Twenty teams are expected to enter the race, and according to indications from pre-tournament practice games, to be played at the Y. M. C. A. court during the past few weeks, this year's race will be the hottest in years, and each team will be backed by a rabid delegation of supporters.

In the presence of the coaches, the drawings for places will take place Friday morning at 8 o'clock and the first game will begin at 9 o'clock. One game will be played every hour thereafter until 12, at which time an hour will be taken out for lunch. The contest will be resumed at 1 o'clock, and continue until 5 o'clock, when another hour will be taken out for supper. Three games will be played Friday night, beginning at 6 o'clock, and continuing through 9 o'clock.

Finals Saturday Night.

LONG EYELASHES

There are a lot of things you can do to make your eyelashes really long, and a lot of things to make them seem long. I find no harm in using every possible method that improves the lashes, for in doing this you add to the beauty of the eyes. And if the eyes are beautiful or in any way impressive, the face is beautiful too.

There is no harm doing this

First of all, there is no reason to use vaseline, or any mineral oil preparation. This does not make the hair grow. Certain vegetable oils will—castor oil is one of them; this has the added advantage of making the hair darker as well. Olive oil will help, but so little that there is not much gained by using it. I am recommended as a face cleanser, and would not be if it had any great tendency towards encouraging superfluous hair. A combination of oil and lanolin is one of the best things for making the eyelashes really longer and thicker, any good eyelash grower should be made of these. Many, unfortunately, are merely perfumed and colored mineral oil products.

The best way to make the lashes seem longer is to use mascara. You can buy attractive little boxes of this complete with brushes, for a fairly small sum, or small that I find never add value using any mascara but the very best. A box lasts years. And there are the most charming tiny, flat hand-bag cases with lipstick and mascara in them, for any touching up that may have to be done when you are not at home. These are ideal for the business girl, who makes up and freshens herself for the evening in the office washroom.

Even the best of the mascaras are drying, so an eyelash tonic is needed, something very sticky and thick and oily, to be used at night after the make-up is washed off. Even vaseline is good for this, for though it won't grow hair it will keep the hair from being too dry.

DOWNWARD DRIFT IN STOCK MARKET RESUMED MONDAY

BRIEF UPTURN OVERCOME AND SOME SHARES REACH NEW BOTTOM LEVELS

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The small volume of selling again was the most cheering aspect of a gradually sinking stock market today. Several pivotal shares held about steady but there were numerous losses of 1 to 3 points and the closing tone was heavy. Transfers aggregated 1,200,000.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The downward drift in the various stock markets resumed today after a brief upturn in the early trading, and several prominent issues registered new bottom levels for the bear cycle.

Offerings again were light but with week and business and trade reports light, there appeared to be nothing to check the decline save occasional short covering.

A ripple of covering passed over the market in the first hour, causing several upticks of a point or so, but thereafter, the trend was generally downward. Tobacco, copper, farm implements and rails were notably heavy. J. I. Case common dropped 3 1/2, and the preferred about 1 1/2. American Tobacco and Liggett & Myers Class B shares lost about 2 points. Santa Fe declined 2 and Chesapeake & Ohio 1 to new bottom prices. Other shares of a point or so to new lows included International Harvester, Dupont, American Smelting and Howesound, U. S. Steel rose 1, then slipped back. General Motors was about steady.

The stock exchanges monthly tabulation of the monthly position, showing a fair increase for January, may have prompted the early covering. The short position for Feb. 1 was reported at $5,826,535, a gain of 716,193 shares since Jan. 1. General Motors' monthly sales report showing sales to consumers for January of 47,942 cars, or slightly below the December volume of 55,888 cars, was one of the factors that caused the early covering. The report also showed that sales for the year to date were 500,000 cars, or 10,000 below the target figure of 510,000 cars.

Curb Trading Very Dull

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Trading was dull on the curb market today. Prices were off slightly during most of the session but the reaction brought out little or no increase in activity.

Utilities were quiet. Commonwealth Edison continued its decline, sagging several points. Middle West Utilities was rather active, gaining about 1 point. Electric Bond and Share slipped below 10. Industrials and specialties showed somewhat more activity than of late. Downward tendencies became slightly more pronounced in a few low-price shares, although volatile issues were dull. Newmont Mining, Deere and Woolworth Ltd., looked rather heavy. Singer Manufacturing rallied after having closed approximately 10 points below the previous session. Some sales of Great Atlantic and Pacific were made at a concession of several points. Oils began the week indifferent with prices inclining to ease. Gold sold around last week's resistance point which was far from the stock's low.

CORDELL HULL IN VIGOROUS SPEECH IN SENATE TODAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Cordell Hull of Tennessee made his maiden senate speech today, delivering a vigorous denunciation of republican policies.

He denounced the democratic policy of "fundamental policies," and have the "courage to carry them into effect."

The Tennessee democrat, who entered the senate this session after a distinguished career in the house, termed the Hoover emergency measures were palliatives for the "effects—not the causes—of the existing depression."

Speaking for himself, Hull urged legislation authorizing a permanent world economic conference to revise tariff downward, unshackle international finance, credit and exchange, and adopted mutual agreements against commercial discriminations.

Urges Reduced Tariff

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Worldwide tariff reduction was urged by Cordell Hull, Tennessee democrat, in his maiden speech in the senate today.

In his maiden speech, the former congressman urged the democratic national committee to support the Hoover relief program and warned those democrats against following the republicans in the tariff.

PRESIDENT PIRATE BASEBALL CLUB IS PNEUMONIA VICTIM

PROMINENT FIGURE SPORT- DOM DIED IN NEW YORK FRIDAY MORNING

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Baseball League, died today at Mt. Sinai hospital at 11:40 a. m., following an operation for glandular trouble. He would have been 67 years old next birthday.

Dreyfuss was operated on Jan. 6 and although he rallied for a time his strength was not equal to the task.

Mrs. Dreyfuss and their daughter, Mrs. W. E. Benavenger, have been constantly at his bedside since the operation and were with him when he passed away. Mrs. Sam Dreyfuss, widow of his son, also was at the bedside.

Pneumonia set in yesterday, the first complication since the operation, and the end then was seen as inevitable.

Benavenger, treasurer of the baseball club and who also was with him at the time he died, planned to take the body to Pittsburgh tonight with burial probably Sunday or Monday from the Dreyfuss home.

Dreyfuss had been actively connected with baseball since 1884, first being affiliated with a semi-professional team at Paducah, Ky. In 1889 he moved to Louisville and purchased an interest in the Louisville Colonels, which he sold in 1892. By 1899 he was the sole owner.

Louisville then was a member of the National League and when the circuit was cut from 12 clubs to eight, he was one of the owners of the Chicago Cubs, which he sold in 1907.

Dreyfuss always was a power in the National League councils, staying with the National League until 1920, when he joined the American League and later the Federal, or outlaw, circuit.

His death was the second among National League magnates since the new league was formed. William Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, died at Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 26 after a short illness.

High Tribute to Dreyfuss
NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—John A. Heydler, president of the National league, today characterized Barney Dreyfuss as the "senior baseball man of the country" in mourning the death of the Pittsburgh club owner.

"I cannot tell you how deeply I feel the loss of Barney Dreyfuss," he said. "My friendship with him dates back to the time we first met in Louisville 35 years ago."

Dreyfuss discovered more great players than any man in the game. He built the first steel plant in the National league, and his abiding faith in the future of the game continued to the end.

"His advice and counsel always was sought by his associates."

URUGUAY READY TO COMBAT REBEL BANDS ON BORDER

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The government was keeping its powder dry today and its eye on rebel bands on the border towns, in spite of the fact that the apparent leader of the uprising, which threatened during the last days of last week and quashed all disturbances.

Infantry forces patrolled the border between Salto and Rivera, searching for a cache of arms the rebels were reported to have hidden.

Police here raided 15 alleged communist centers and confiscated a large volume of printed matter they said was subversive. They also arrested several alleged communists, including a well-known leader named Llorca.

The government continued to hold Neomunuceno Saravia, estranged regional leader of the nationalist party at Rivera, where he was arrested Saturday, but it was stated he probably would be released here tomorrow for arraignment.

"Officials maintained that a communist never could become a real danger to the Uruguayan government, pointing out that in the last election the communists were defeated by a vote of 308,181."

Order prevails everywhere throughout the country, a government announcement said.

Eighteen-Year-Old Youth Held In Death Ten-Year-Old Boy

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Antonio Esquivel, 10, son of Joe Esquivel, a rancher, was shot to death by his cousin yesterday afternoon.

The cousin, John, 18, was held in the county jail here pending completion of the investigation. Justice of the Peace John R. Shook was holding an inquest.

Carolina Esquivel, 14-year-old sister of the dead boy and a witness to the tragedy, made a statement to the district attorney's men in which she declared she and the two boys were walking in a field when John told her to hold up her finger. He wanted to shoot her.

According to her statement, she and Antonio were walking away when John called: "Turn around, Tony, I'm going to shoot you."

Deputy Sheriff John Mangold said a 22-falliber rifle and fired one shot. The boy ran a few steps and fell dead, shot through the heart.

Without interruption if the well-known flow, he said. Or, if the dead well-known flow, he said. Or, if the dead well-known flow, he said.

The survey revealed 125 pumping, five shut down to standardize, 16 agitating and 9 dead in three Joiner area. 10 pumping and three dead in Kilgore area. 13 pumping and two dead in the Longview-Gladewater area, while not complete, the report was believed representative of the status in the field.

"very bad." They intimated that they would wait for reinforcements before attacking again.

There were reports that additional Japanese troops had been landed at Woosung, but there was no confirmation in responsible quarters.

U. S. Destroyers Move

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Two American destroyers have been ordered from Shanghai up the Yangtze river, one to augment forces at Nanking and the other to be stationed at Chinkiang.

Japan Plane Assailed

TOKYO, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Three army officers and a sergeant were killed and three airplanes were wrecked in two accidents today.

Near Aogoya two army planes carrying three officers collided in mid-air and crashed. The sergeant was killed when his engine failed on a long-distance flight and his plane fell 4,000 feet.

SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 8.—(AP)—(Tuesday)—Dispatches from Nanking today disclosed that the government temporarily functioned from Honfou, had succeeded in uniting the several political factions in the face of Japan's activities here.

The country has been divided into four military zones with Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek coordinating all commands.

U. S. Marine Accident Victim

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The accidental killing of a United States marine in Shanghai through the discharge of a gun held by a fellow serviceman, was reported today to the navy department.

Chinese Fighting With More Spirit

SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Fighting with more spirit than it had hitherto exhibited, the Chinese army today repulsed a Japanese attack on the forts of Woosung and renewed the bombardment of the enemy Bluejackets holding Hongkew.

The Japanese already had occupied a part of Woosung village, 16 miles down the Whangpoo from the city, but when they tried to extend their holdings the Chinese fought back.

Thoroughly aroused, the Chinese destroyers opened up from the river and dropped shells in the village.

Over in Chapel, where things were quiet in the morning, the Chinese unlimbered their trench mortars and in the afternoon and began shelling Hongkew.

The Japanese replied with their artillery and sent Bluejackets in action with rifles and machine guns.

The firing kept up three hours. Some of the shells fell inside the international settlement.

The British volunteers, strung along the settlement boundary near the Chapel north station, blocked a Japanese flank attack.

The British moved along Ranger road, trying to get around a British "pillbox." If they had succeeded they could have gone along the Elgin road and fallen upon the Chinese rear.

But the British threw up a sandbag barricade at the end of Ranger road and headed them off.

It blocked the movement but it left the British in a delicate position, facing the Japanese in one direction and the Chinese in the other.

The Chinese offered less resistance at Woosung today, in contrast with the galling fire they poured on the attackers yesterday.

Today only a light exchange of rifles and machine gun fire from the Chinese was heard. All effective Chinese guns in the forts were silenced.

Protest Airplane Activity

Foreign residents of the settlement entered a strong protest against Japanese airplanes today with Edwin S. Cunningham, United States consul general and dean of the consular corps here, asking him to present the protest to Japanese authorities. They asked that the Japanese airplanes be forbidden to fly over the foreign quarter.

United States army officials said there was a feeling that American infantry troops might be stationed here permanently from now on as an added protection to American business interests. Only marines have been stationed here up to now.

Trips to Nowhere Opposed.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—K. Smith, commissioner of the shipping board, testified before the house merchant marine committee today that on foreign flag ship "Trips to Nowhere" Americans can get all they want to drink.

Smith said the board was strongly in favor of the Davis measure to prevent foreign ships from leaving New York on a no-destination cruise and returning to that port to discharge passengers.

American ships would not be barred from this trade under the Davis bill.

ly construed in editorial comment as in effect a thrust against the candidacy of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York. A man who nominally Smith for the presidential nomination at the 1928 democratic national convention and sent him forward to the contest of votes as the "happy warrior" of the party.

Governor Roosevelt declined to comment. So also did Gov. Ritchie, an avowed candidate, Speaker Garner and Newton D. Baker, each of whom has been mentioned as a possible competitor.

Smith's statement said: "So many inquiries have come to me from friends throughout the country who worked for and believe in me, that my attitude in the present political situation, that I feel that I owe it to my friends and to the millions of men and women who supported me so loyally in 1928 to make my position clear."

"If the Democratic national convention after careful consideration should decide that it wants me to lead, I will make the fight, but I will not make a pre-convention campaign to secure the support of delegates."

"By action of the Democratic national convention of 1928 I am the leader of my party in the nation. I am not a candidate for responsibility thereby imposed. I shall not in advance of the convention either support or oppose the candidacy of any aspirant for the nomination."

Smith asked if he would forbid use of his name in states that do not require the consent of a candidate for nomination.

"I don't see how I can stop anyone from doing anything," he said.

"Will you support any candidate selected by the convention?" "I am a democrat. That is your answer."

"Does this permit your friends to enter your name in various state primaries?" "I will answer that by repeating I'll make no pre-convention campaign."

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—(P)—That veteran legal campaigner Clarence Darrow is about to swing into action again.

This time his object is to save the life of a 17-year-old Rockford, Ill., boy, Russell McWilliams, condemned to die for slaying a street car conductor during a holdup. Undeterred by the recent refusal of the state board of pardons and paroles to heed his plea to set aside the death penalty, Darrow plans to appear before the Illinois supreme court next Saturday with oral argument in the boy's behalf.

RICHMOND, Feb. 8.—(P)—Identification of a middle aged man who hanged himself in a railroad depot near here had not been made finally today.

Justice Myers said the available evidence indicated the man was an alien seaman. He added the victim presumably had been dead 14 to 16 hours when the body was found in the lonely depot yesterday.

Grandmother, Mrs. Betty Anderson, Corsicana; and a number of other relatives.

Deere was a high school student. Pallbearers were Le-e Adams, Boyce Adams, Johnnie Bell Taylor, Elton Dorsey, Edwin Godley and Duard Rhea.

Net Earnings of Insull Utilities Branch Increased

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—(P)—Net earnings of the Peoples' Gas and Light and Coke Company, one of the Insull Utilities, were higher in 1931 than in 1930 despite a falling off in volume of gas sales. The 1931 earnings of $7,561,582 were equivalent to $10.96 a share on common stock and compared with $10.43 a share in 1930. Sales of gas decreased 5.26 per cent during the year and by product and appliance sales were also down, but officials reported that operating economies and an upturn in income from investments enabled the company to show an increase in earnings.
